Act I in Asbury Hall
Intermission
Act II in Hallwalls Cinema (Ash)

New (mostly) solo contemporary dance works performed to live music in classical, jazz, & blues genres. Intimate seating in two different spaces in The Church puts you up close and personal with dancers and musicians. Visual art installations by Catherine Linder Spencer & David Butler. Amy Taravella is Co-Artistic Director of Buffalo Contemporary Dance, with whom she recently performed at The Church in Dances for Our Mothers.

Choreographer Gerry Trentham's new work Ash, a "duet" for dancer and video, was commissioned by and for Taravella, with video by Toronto filmmaker Michael Stecky and music by composer Kevin McFadden. Taravella will dance Untitled Duet with its choreographer, Matt Williams.

Center for Constitutional Rights, Melville House Books, Talking Leaves Books, & Hallwalls present

ARTICLES OF IMPEACHMENT AGAINST GEORGE W. BUSH: A National Teach-In

Wednesday, July 19, 8 pm • Hallwalls Cinema at The Church • FREE

The Center for Constitutional Rights, America's leading institution of constitutional scholarship, has developed a legal case for the impeachment of George W. Bush. Now, in collaboration with its publisher Melville House Books and progressive organizations across the U.S., the nonprofit CCR is sponsoring a "National Teach-In" to share their case, what's at stake, and what impeachment means for every American.

The program begins with the screening of the 30-minute documentary How to Impeach a President, based on the CCR's book Articles of Impeachment Against George W. Bush, published by Melville House in March 2006. The Buffalo teach-in will be moderated by Prof. Bruce Jackson, Samuel P. Capen Chair of American Culture at UB, publisher of the on-line Buffalo Report, and close long-time friend of the late CCR co-founder William Kuntzler.
